How much does it cost?

Every patient experiences different levels of hair loss. We care about delivering the best result that is custom-tailored to your needs. We calculate the final price of each hair transplant procedure based on the number of grafts required to achieve your desired look. The exact number of grafts you'll need depends on multiple factors:

- The extent of your hair loss and your desired hair restoration outcome including the desired density
- The method of graft harvest: RESTORE F.U.E. Method or No-Shave
- Your individual hair characteristics that influence the appearance of density (such as the way you style your hair)

The RESTORE Hair Procedure

The Breakthrough RESTORE F.U.E.!

Follicular Unit Excision

FUT involves a strip of scalp removal, leaving a linear scar, while FUE extracts individual follicles, minimizing scarring for a more discreet result.

Better Instruments Means Better Results

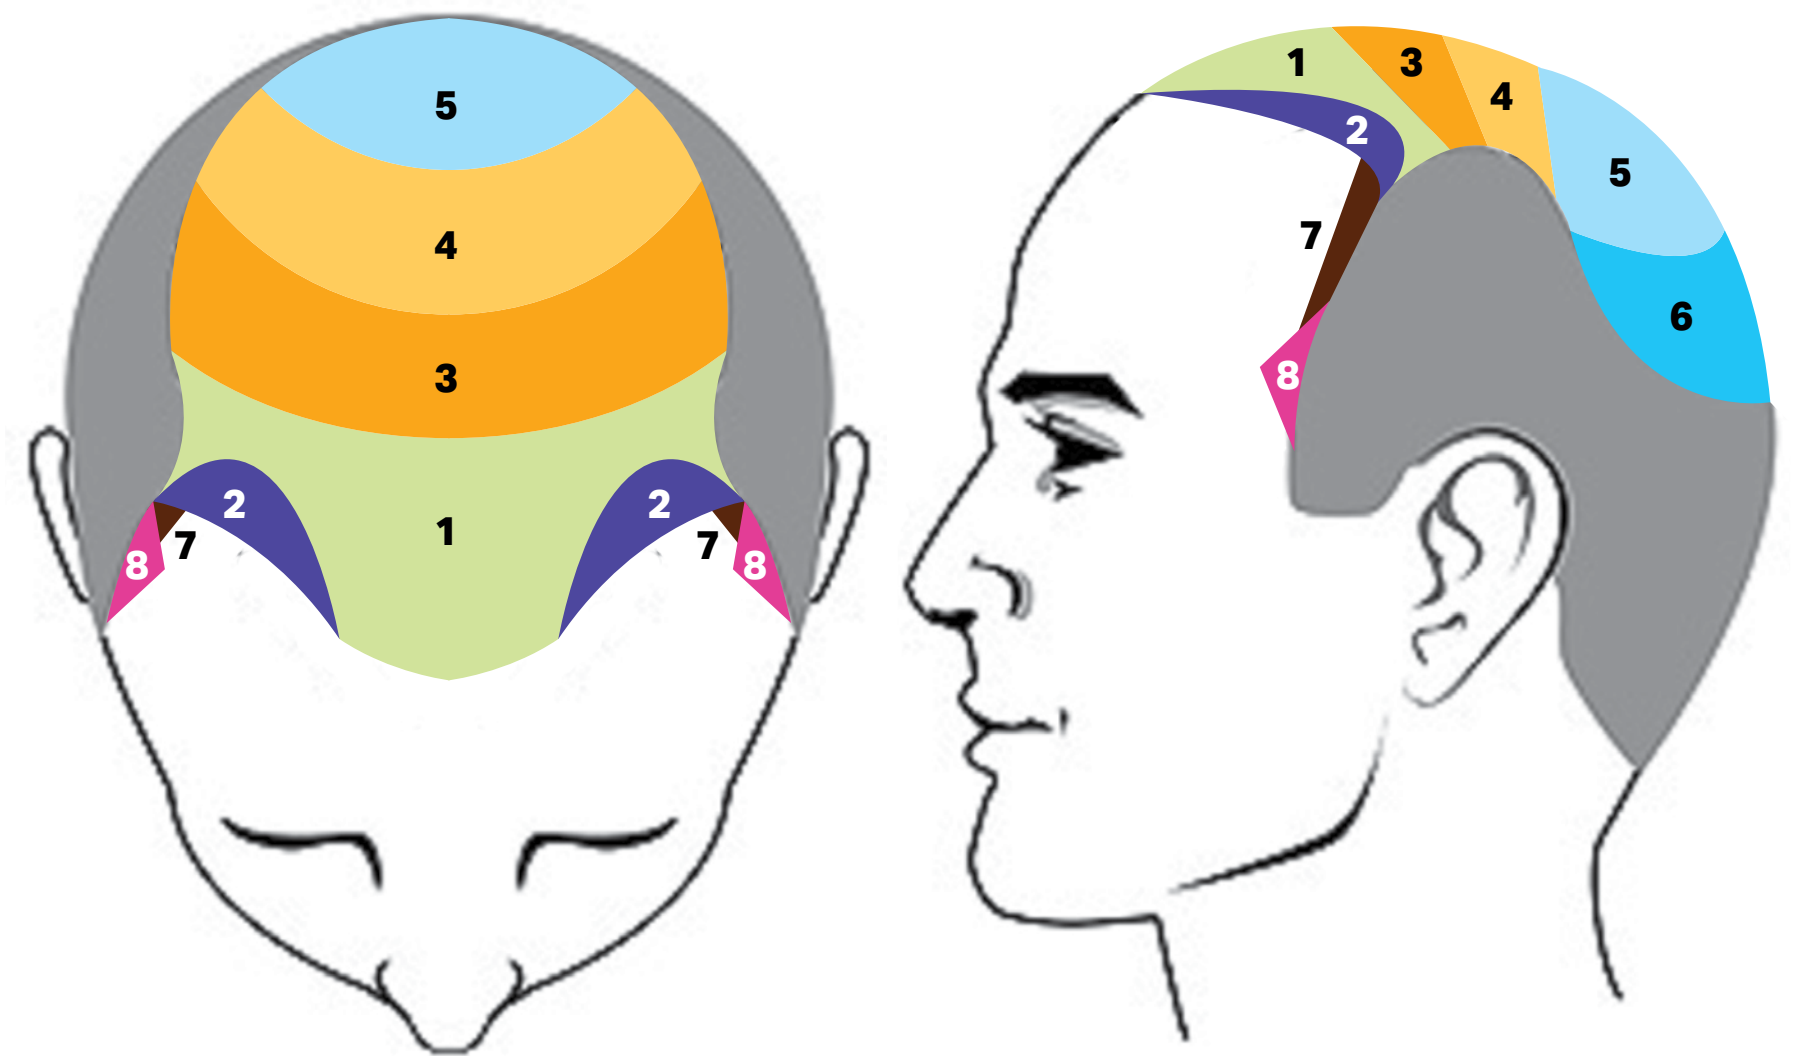

Where Does the New Hair Come From?

In fue hair transplants, new hair comes from the patient's own donor area on the back and sides of the scalp. Individual follicles are extracted and strategically implanted into areas with hair loss, ensuring a natural look and long-lasting results.

Creating the Best Result – STEP 1

Create Your Entire Hair Restoration Plan

- 1. Frontal Forelock
- 2. Temporal Recessions
- 3. Anterior Mid-scalp
- 4. Posterior Mid-scalp
- 5. Upper Crown
- 6. Lower Crown
- 7. Temporal Hairline
- 8. Temporal Points

Creating the Best Result – STEP 2

Establish a Natural Hairline

FUE extracts individual follicles, minimizing scarring for a more discreet result. We use facial structure and pattern of loss to help create a natural hairline design.

Creating the Best Result – STEP 3

Blend Naturally with Existing Hair

FUT involves a strip of scalp removal, leaving a linear scar, while FUE extracts individual follicles, minimizing scarring for a more discreet result.

RESTORE[®]

No-Shave F.U.E.

The Future of Hair Restoration is Here

With this technique, we trim the individual hair follicles to be transplanted, which are completely hidden by the rest of the surrounding hair. This is far superior to the typical process of shaving the donor in order to harvest the needed follicles.

PRP Non-Surgical treatment for thinning hair

"I'm totally blown away with my results, and the treatment was beyond easy."

Matt D.
32 Years Old

1. Cost savings

PRP treatment for androgenetic alopecia can cost up to $1600, but combining it with surgery reduces the price by up to 50%. Since the patient is already numbed for surgery, the injection causes no additional pain.

2. Slows hair loss

PRP helps slow hair loss and can benefit patients even if they're on other medications. It may thicken miniaturized hairs, improving overall surgical results.

3. Speeds the healing process

PRP provides growth factors that promote skin regeneration, collagen production, blood supply, and wound repair. This can shorten the typical 7–10 day healing phase by up to 33%.

4. Improves graft survival

The survival of transplanted grafts depends on blood supply, and PRP contains VEGF, which promotes new vessel growth. This increases the likelihood of graft success.

5. Speeds graft regrowth

After transplant, follicles usually enter a resting phase before regrowing hair. PRP stimulates follicle regeneration and shortens the resting phase, leading to faster new hair growth.
